

The CSU Health Network at Colorado State University is recruiting for an Associate Director of Counseling Services/Clinical Director.

The Associate Director of Counseling Services/Clinical Director is a member of the Counseling Services Leadership Team, participating in the visioning and executive decision-making of the department. The Associate Director/Clinical Director provides leadership for and management of all General Services clinical treatment. This includes oncall counseling services, behavioral health within the medical clinic, individual and couple counseling, and group treatment services. The Associate Director/Clinical Director supervises the clinical services training of professional staff and graduate trainees, provides operational supervision of all staff, and resolves clinical dilemmas when they arise. Additionally, the Associate Director/Clinical Director provides clinical service to University students, clinical supervision and training of graduate trainees and unlicensed professional staff, and outreach to the campus community. The Associate Director/Clinical Director assumes additional leadership responsibilities in the absence of the Director of Counseling Services and serves on Division of Student Affairs committees as assigned.
